MP Holder to recognize Angus McKenzie in Parliament

OTTAWA- January 27, 2009 – Member of Parliament Ed Holder will rise in the House of Commons shortly after 2PM today to recognize Angus McKenzie. Mr. McKenzie, a very prominent individual in the London area, passed away on January 19th.

“It will be a great honour for me to express the sorrow our City feels for the loss of Angus Mackenzie. He was also a good friend of mine, so I expect it will be quite emotional for me to rise on the floor of the House of Commons and pay tribute to this great Londoner,” said Ed Holder.

The statement, which will be available live via CPAC, reads as follows:

“Mr. Speaker, on January 19th, 2009 the citizens of London lost a tremendous community hero.

I lost my very dear friend, Angus McKenzie. His 82 years with us was too short. He was a successful lawyer and a founding partner with McKenzie Lake Law Firm.

Angus was a giant in terms of community service; a legend who cannot be replaced.

He helped most every charity in London and more importantly, thoughtfully challenged others to do the same. He brought out the best in us and elevated our commitment to community.

All the while, Angus was a true gentleman....very gracious....very humble.

His involvement will be deeply missed, yet his enduring influence will be the living legacy of community leaders he inspired. This was his great gift to us.

On behalf of London and Canada, I wish to thank his wife Jean and their children - Kate, Carol and Ian. They sacrificed so much so that we could spend time with Angus.

We’ll miss you dear friend.”
